

As of September 2007, Air Canada and CAE reached an agreement, whereby CAE is responsible for managing the simulators and training centre operations at Air Canada's two training centres located in Toronto and Vancouver. This agreement brings CAE together with Canada's largest world-class airline.

The following Air Canada simulators are available for all your pilot and technical /maintenance training needs. Initial, recurrent, upgrade, and supplemental classes are offered at both locations.

Additionally, the existing CAE Training and Services, Toronto facility is currently under construction to be expanded to house nine simulator bays. Once completed the training centre will include complete classrooms, lounge, briefing rooms, aviation library, dining area and administration offices.

As a result of this expansion, Air Canada will be relocating its current training devices and flight training organization in Toronto to facilities adjacent to CAE Training and Services, Toronto making it the largest training centre in Canada with 13 simulator bays.
