

CAE Healthcare announces CAE Juno distribution agreement with WorldPoint

Sarasota, U.S. and Montreal, Canada – April 11, 2018 – CAE Healthcare announced today that WorldPoint, a global provider of healthcare training products based in Wheeling, Illinois, has signed an agreement to distribute CAE Juno products into training and simulation centers throughout the United States. WorldPoint will offer the clinical skills manikin and its simulation-based curriculum.

“We chose WorldPoint based on their enduring commitment to provide high-quality products, customer-focused service and for their alignment with our mission to improve clinical education and patient safety,” said Dr. Robert Amyot, president of CAE Healthcare. “We are pleased to welcome WorldPoint to our growing network of CAE Healthcare distributors.”

“We are excited to partner with CAE Healthcare to advance CAE Juno through our unique network of customers” said John Amato, president and CEO of WorldPoint. “Working with CAE Healthcare and their sales team, we hope to grow our relationship and expand the reach of CAE Juno especially within the American Heart Association (AHA) training network.”

Since WorldPoint was established in 1996, the private company has partnered with the American Heart Association and American Academy of Pediatrics to provide highest quality training to more than 3,400 recognized AHA training centers and more than 400,000 instructors in the United States. WorldPoint is known for gold-standard service to the medical education community, and prides itself on same-day shipments from its various worldwide distribution centers in North America, Latin America and now Dubai.
